Hi Tor,

We are currently in the process of changing the 128mm wire on the vessel due to rotation issues. We were unable to lubricate the wire due to this. We did attempt, some time ago, but because of this issue and they general loose lay of the wire, there was no way that the lubricant could penetrate the inner strands.

The new wire will be a modified version of the Big Hydra, which is far more compact, and I expect will be much simpler to lubricate. Of course once this has been completed, I will forward photo's as promised.

We will carryout lubrication on our 103mm wire in the coming days. This will be the third time this has been conducted, and I am extremely satisfied with the results. No wastage due to drop off during application and very good penetration.

Kindest regards
